

Corporate internet fax solutions

Traditional faxing in a large corporation represents a heterogeneous ensemble of telephone lines, fax machines, multifunctional devices, expensive and complex fax servers and the replacement of paper stock and ink cartridges. All this results in intricate systems which are hard to maintain and environmentally unfriendly attitudes that results in unjustified office expense.

A virtual fax solution in a mobile and unified electronic messaging system, like fax to email, mail to fax, mobile-desktop-web applications helps avoid printing most of your faxes. It would save tons of paper and ink cartridges, remove the need for fax equipment recycling, are wasting annually, conducting to for business owners.

Popfax.com – the leading European provider of Internet fax services, announces its new Corporate offer that provides a complete set of fax solutions that can be tailored to the communication needs of professionals.

The solutions for Corporate customers consists of several aspects of customization and provisioning that Popfax is aiming to face in order to satisfy its clients:

- Professional services – new Internet fax packages specially designed to fulfill specific companies' communication needs. These packages are tailored offers for corporations interested in secure faxing, high-volume reception, personalized fax sending and number portability.
- Global account – a centralized management system, allowing administration and tracking of all fax users within a company.
- Custom development – the Internet fax service can be tailored and personalized for any communication needs of a company. The Popfax engineering team provides custom IT development on demand, thus expanding Internet fax use to new applications.
- Premium support – corporate fax solution includes, by default, strong contractual commitments for quality of service, a dedicated project manager and premium hardware and software solutions.

For more information on Popfax corporate offers, please consult the corporate fax solutions page.

“It took years of efforts and improvements to build and offer our professional Internet fax solutions as they are today. Based on our experience providing custom fax solutions to large corporations, we have laid down a methodology and a set of tools in order to speed-up the process of providing our fax solutions to enterprises” says Vladimir Popesco the General Manager of Popfax.com.